

Custom Reports

Getting greater insight into your business means enhanced reporting. With so much information from so many different sources, it can be tough for fleets to gather the data that truly improves operational performance.

Omnitracs' Professional Services team creates custom reports that help fleets drive business intelligence and improve operational performance by tailoring information to meet their specific needs. Omnitracs is able to combine data points from various Omnitracs applications and tie them together with back office systems to create rich, meaningful reporting.

Custom Reporting allows fleets to:

- Meet any data requirements with fully customizable reporting
- Improve asset management
- Stay informed on things other products can't quantify
- Improve visibility into drivers' daily activities
- Save time, resources, and money
- Improve operational efficiency and performance

Custom Reporting eliminates the need for customers to gather data from multiple sources and individually analyze records. With Custom Reporting, data is easily gathered, then stretched and viewed from multiple angles in order to provide your fleet the greatest insight to make informed decisions on how to improve operations. If you want to know how long drivers spend at specific sites or which drivers are the worst offenders of idle time, reporting is a great way to understand these metrics and subsequently take action. Professional Services will evaluate the business need and help to determine if data points are available for reporting.
